

SUSTAINABILITY & ESG
CREATING SUSTAINABLE
SOLUTIONS TOGETHER

BDO India
2025

With economic growth gradually being restored globally, the next challenge is decoupling this growth from sustainable development parameters in a resource-constrained world that is overwhelmed with challenges of climate change, lack of sustainable infrastructure, inappropriate development priorities, and irresponsible production and consumption patterns.

Managing sustainability risks and maximising the opportunities would require an unprecedented level of analysis, innovation, commitment, and actions. This necessitates a fundamental re-examination of the economy's relationship with material resources, energy, water, waste, biodiversity, not just in terms of how they are consumed, but also how they are renewed.

In recent times, we have been repeatedly reminded of the strong and inevitable inter-linkage of human and planetary health like never before. It is clear that for the human race to co-exist along with nature, we need to follow an uncompromising protocol that will aid in maintaining the balance between economic growth options and human well-being, addressing the need for creating a more resilient blue planet.

Making sustainability a reality across sectors requires dedicated efforts and conscious collaboration from professionals committed to the development of creating innovative and lasting solutions.

An effective approach to sustainability needs to look at all the components that can affect us by going beyond the 'feel good'
